Capturing Art... One Breath At A Time

In waters as deep as 10,000 feet one hundred miles out to sea, yet just a dozen feet below the ocean's surface, Tony Ludovico holds his breath up to four minutes to capture that one moment in time when natural light and aquatic life sync into a striking image. Tony's portraits of sea life offer not only stunning detail and brilliant color, but often tell unusual stories about the unique existence of these increasingly rare creatures in the wild. Tony is considered to be a leading force in bringing the ocean's inhabitants and their secrets of life to the surface through his photography. Tony's love for the ocean and his passion to share this incredible world under the water is legendary among his peers, and sport fishing and diving enthusiasts worldwide.
