

"Jack Dowd is a contemporary social realist; a connoisseur of American types; the boisterous, eccentric, innocently hilarious individuals who rarely become the subject of art.

Dowd celebrates America's idiosyncratic extended family in his ongoing series of full sized figures, with affection, humor and satiric wit.

His insight into the human psyche gives Dowd the ability to create a depth of character in sculpture so profound that he is now considered one of the most significant artists of the 21st Century."

Jack Dowd's Last Call

"Last Call is a cultural tribute to the vibrancy and social vitality of metropolitan American nightlife. Thirteen life sized sculptures interact with a 22-foot mahogany bar in this traditional New York bar scene. The bar is common ground for men and women of diverse occupations and ethnic backgrounds."

"27 years is not a long life, hardly enough time to leave a mark that will not wash away faster than it was created."
